

Aqua Alta Hayat Benchenaa

The field of exhibition interactives is growing and is particularly fertile for interaction designers interested in designing between the real and the virtual. In a two week workshop at Interaction Design Institute Ivrea, we used the Future Centre in Venice as a case study to address a range of different issues including strategy, communication, technical implementation and the design of experience.

In the beginning we went to Venice and

